The Admiral refused to comment on the case in any way, but the secretary said: "Admiral Sims has denied the accuracy of the statement attributed to him. He stated that he was incorrectly quoted. I gave him a written memorandum, asking for those statements, and asking him to inform me in writing, where he was misquoted, and tell me, if he was, what he did say." It was indicated at the Department that Secretary Denby would require Admiral Sims to show that he had been substantially misquoted, and would not be content with repudiation of certain words.

First Reunion a Big Success---Banquet and Sight Seeing

State House, Boston, Mass.
June 21, 1921

Oliver L. Frisbee, President,
N. H. Legislative Association,
Portsmouth, N. H.

My dear Mr. Frisbee:

You are kind to extend an invitation to attend the reunion of the New Hampshire Legislature on Thursday, June 23rd, and I regret that the Harvard Commencement exercises come on the same date and that I am prevented from joining with you. It ought to be a most interesting occasion. I have known many of the men who have sat in your Legislature and held them in the highest esteem.

New Hampshire has always taken a sound and healthy view of conditions and I believe her inhabitants to be among the most contented in the world, which is some evidence that they live under good laws wisely administered.

During nine terms as a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives I experienced the great satisfaction that comes from legislative service. It affords a rare opportunity to meet men from all sections of the state and it is broadening to get the view point of other men.

It would be most agreeable to meet with your distinguished members on Thursday and I should gladly welcome not be with you on that occasion. I trust that the reunion of the New Hampshire Legislature at Portsmouth on June 23rd to celebrate the 133rd anniversary of the adoption of the Federal Constitution by New Hampshire will be a most successful and enjoyable occasion.

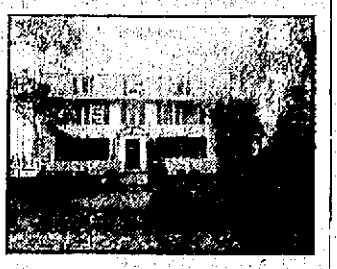

Again thanking you for your letter and with kindest regards, please believe me,

Very truly yours,
ALVIN T. FULLER

Civilization's Greatest Achievement

Some Eskimos were brought down to Edmonton, Alberta, on official business.

They had never seen a street, a town, a window, or a wooden door. A bed, a water tap, and an electric light produced completely new sensations. Street cars were unknown to them; telephones unheard of; trains not to be believed even when beheld.

They had never seen an automobile until someone took them riding in one. They had never set their eyes on an airplane until someone did his most daring stunts in one to thrill them. They had never even seen a movie!

But what do you suppose moved them most in the whole bag of tricks which civilization produced for their amusement and amazement?

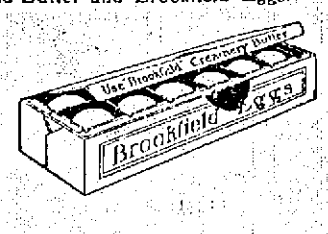

What seemed to them the greatest wonder of all?

The cold storage plants!

The White Man didn't always have to hunt and fish when he wanted to eat!

This feature of civilization makes it possible for Swift & Company, in the season of over production, to store a supply of food for distribution in the season of scant, or non-production. Thus we are able to maintain for all a constant supply of such choice and necessary foods as Premium Milk-fed Chickens, Brookfield Butter and Brookfield Eggs.

Amazing Recovery Thru Gland Tablets

Mr. McClelland Had Suffered Years With Loss of Weight, Weakness and Nervous Disorders.

"After suffering for years with run-down condition and practically all of its symptoms, today, one month from the time I first began taking Glandex Compound, I feel like an entirely new man, my health, weight and strength having been completely restored," said Mr. William McClelland, 143 Beckley St., Boston, Mass.

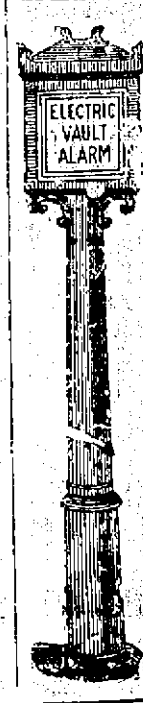

"I had been losing my weight and strength right along, and my nerves were on edge all the time. The least thing would make me go to pieces. I got little rest nights, and could only sleep in short, troubled snatches.

"Four days after I started taking Glandex Compound I noticed a wonderful improvement. My appetite picked right up and I began putting on weight. In one month the scales showed an increase of 13 pounds. I can sleep fine now, and am getting stronger every day. Glandex has made a new man of me! It has given me more confidence in myself, and I can't say enough in praise of it. It has done me worlds of good."

The reason Glandex Compound brings such remarkable results in so many cases is because it helps build up run-down glands—the source of many run-down conditions—by feeding them with gland extracts taken from the glands of healthy and vigorous sheep and cattle. Practically, on the same principle of recharging a storage battery.

If weak, pale, thin, generally run-down or prematurely old, try this remarkable tonic. Notice results—or your money back. It has helped thousands to regain health and strength. Try a bottle. Sold at good druggists everywhere.

NAVAL ACADEMY CREW WIN RACE; NEW RECORD

(By Associated Press)

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22—Special invited crews won the rowing classes here today when the United States Naval Academy crew and the University of California finished first and second respectively in the three mile varsity race. Cornell upheld her reputation by winning third place after having taken the preliminaries.

The United States Naval Academy crew, the last year's champions, went into the lead in the beginning and maintained it the full distance, creating a new record of 14m 7s for the three miles.

The spectacular feature was the giant crew from California, who after battling with the navy crew for over two miles, dropped back into a fight with Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Columbia, but finished in 14m 22s. Cornell, third, was within the new record as compared with the time for the same distance. Pennsylvania, Columbia and Syracuse finished in the order named.

PORTSMOUTH DAY AT N. H. C.

July 13th will be observed as Portsmouth Day at the Northern New England School of Religious Education which has its sessions this year at our New Hampshire college, Durham, N. H., July 11-17.

This is the sixth session of this school which affords an unusual summertime opportunity for combining study and recreation for all interested in any phase of religious education.

The state authorities and the officials of the college are giving their heartiest co-operation to make this year the best in the history of the school. Governor Brown says: "The great possibilities for good which the field of religious education presents impress me deeply and I can commend the successful efforts which the Northern New England School of Religious Education is making to train teachers and workers for this splendid service. It will be a pleasure, a profit, and an honor to the state of New Hampshire to have some of the facilities of the college at Durham utilized this summer for the session of this school."

The faculty includes some of the foremost specialists in religious education in New England. The program for each day includes lectures and department work in the morning, recreation and stunts in the afternoon, sunset service on the campus, and a popular evening lecture course. It is hoped that many from the various churches will avail themselves of this excellent opportunity.

Special plans will be made for a large delegation to visit the school on Wednesday, July 13, which will be known at the school as Portsmouth Day. Rev. Isaac Higginbotham, pastor of the Middle Street Baptist church of this city has been asked to take charge of the arrangements for that day. He would like to secure at least twenty cars, some for the whole day and some for the afternoon and evening, to take as many of the Sunday school officers, teachers and other workers to the college on that day. If you have a car you can put it to splendid use on that day by offering it to the committee.

The plan will be to arrive at Durham in time to attend some of the morning classes. In the afternoon some special recreational features will be arranged. In the evening there will be a special feature, "Motion Pictures in Religious Education," illustrated with several reels. The only expense for the day will be for meals and plans will be made for having the Portsmouth delegation eat together, either in the dining hall or picnic fashion on the campus. There will be no expenses for lectures, etc., as we shall be the guests of the school.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON BY REV. ISAAC HIGGINBOTHAM BEFORE H. S. SENIORS LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

The following was the Baccalaureate sermon preached to the P. H. S. class of 1921 by the Rev. Isaac Higginbotham at the Middle Street Baptist church on Sunday evening:

"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: yea, with all thy getting get understanding." Prov. 4:7.

It is a privilege for me this evening to stand before this group of young people with so much of promise and possibility before them, and to bring to them a message from God's word. I feel also the responsibility, for it seems but yesterday that I was in your places listening to a similar message from my own pastor. I know how much these days mean to you, and urge you to drink deep of their inspiration for they will never return. Today you stand within the glow of youth, with all of its enthusiasm and hopes, with all of its fancies and dreams, for the "thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts," reaching far into the future. Very soon some of you will be crossing over the threshold into manhood and womanhood, and almost before you are aware your youth will have vanished, and

"When youth, the dream departs,
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again."

God grant that before youth departs each one of you may find life's purpose and might to realize it.

On the coast of Wales is a small village. It is a most dangerous part of the coast. Many lives have been sacrificed there. The villagers conceived the idea of a life-boat. First of all, the life-boat house was built, but by the time that was completed the funds ran out, and the life-boat was never secured. There the house stands well built, painted, polished, but there is no life-boat. How true that is of many young people.

You may have glorious visions, splendid ideas, but unless you have some grand out-reaching purpose to which life itself is dedicated your visions and ideas will fade into nothingness.

"Grant us the will to fashion as we feel!
Grant us the strength to labor as we know!
Grant us the purpose, ribbed and edged with steel
To strike the blow!"

Tonight I would bring you such a purpose in the words of our text. "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: yea, with all thy getting, get understanding." There may be some here tonight who would deny that wisdom is the principal thing, who would put success, service, work, or love far above wisdom, but I hope to show you before I close that wisdom, true wisdom, is after all the principal thing.

I. Some of you are going further to college, technical school, or normal school. It is for you to make wisdom the principal thing.

I sincerely hope that many of you are going to college or some other higher institution of learning. I know that some of you feel as though you do not want to see a book, except the latest fiction, for a year. The writer of Ecclesiastes knew just how you felt when he wrote, "Of the making of books there is no end, and much study is a weariness of the flesh." But many of you will feel much different when September comes, and I am hoping that some of you who are undecided will sense the need and the opportunity for some form of advanced training. The tragedy is that so many High school students do not think of going to college until they are about ready to graduate, and then they wish that they had taken the necessary studies. They think that they are too old to go back or to attend some academy in order to take the extra preparation. If any of you think that you are too old, let me say emphatically, No! Pardon a personal experience. It was necessary for me to go to work at the age of fourteen. After five years I was able to go back to school, and I went back with the conviction of the value of an education. The first month was hard, harder than most of you can realize, but I stuck it out, and the next ten years and a half were not so hard. Moreover I found that school and college were really keeping me young, not only in spirit, but also in my mind and body; and when I reached college I found lots of chaps older than myself. Do not think that it will be a waste of time to fit yourself for college even now, for it will prove itself to be the best investment of time that you can possibly make. I will say you to go back and prepare for higher work even now. Some of you are thinking that you cannot afford it, but if you could only [illegible] you would see that you cannot afford not to do it. There are innumerable ways for ambitious young men and women to earn their college education, and very few colleges will turn away a student because of lack of funds who has shown himself to be dead in earnest in securing an education.

But I am speaking now more especially to those of you who have fully decided to go further. When you go go with the purpose of making "wisdom the principal thing." Unless you go to college with that purpose you will miss the very thing that a college education is for. There are those in college who make athletics the principal thing, and who measure their college education by the number of yards won on the gridiron, by their baseball hitting and fielding percentage, and by the number of points they make at the track meet. To them the college letter on their sweaters is of more importance than their college degree. Now, I believe heart and soul in college athletics, and I can root with the best of them, but athletics should never be the principal thing. Others make social life the principal thing, and are not happy until they make their favorite fraternity. College to them means one glad round of good times, married only by such unpleasant things as recitations, quizzes, themes, and exams. Now I have little use for the man who goes to college and does not enter into its social life, for that is a part of its training for life, but it is not the principal thing. All legitimate college activities are splendid aids to self-development when not overdone, but none of them should be allowed to usurp the first place. "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: yea, with all thy getting," the getting of athletic honors, of good times, of fraternity spirit, do not forget to "get understanding."

How are you to get this wisdom and understanding in college? First of all through your studies. College life at best is very short, four years that pass like the whirlwind. Everyone who goes to college should pray the prayer of the Psalmist, "So teach us to number our days, that we may get us a heart of wisdom." Choose those courses which are going to build themselves into your life and character, and above all shun the snap courses if you value your own self-respect, and do not be so narrow as to choose only such courses as will help you in your business or profession. Then put into your college work the best of heart, of mind, and of strength, that you may acquire not only a vast amount of facts and theories, but an understanding heart. I am not asking you to become a grind or a bookworm, for many a man has gone through college with his nose in a book and has come out with much learning, but with little wisdom; and many a wearer of the Phi Beta Kappa key, is lacking in an understanding of life. But an earnest application of life to your studies and just as earnest an application of your studies to your life will surely "get you hearts of wisdom." But there are other things in college that make for wisdom. A reasonable participation in college activities, especially in debating, speaking, discussions, fraternity activities, is helpful in the acquiring of practical wisdom. Another valuable thing in college life is the association with the other students, the sharing of one another's point of view, the give and the take which comes in entering into one another's thought life. Sometimes you learn more from breaking out a subject or problem with a group of students in your room than you do in the lecture room, and I shall never forget some of the discussions with my fellow students. Another aid to the acquiring of wisdom is the cultivation in college of the habit of discriminating outside reading, not that which is given out in class, but that which you do on your own account in literature, in history, in philosophy, or in keeping abreast of the times in which you live. We read in Matthew the words of Jesus, "If any man compel thee to go a mile, go with him two." Christ was here speaking of the second mile, not the first mile of duty, but the extra mile of love. There is a second mile of voluntary reading, research, and thought, that pays large dividends in appreciation and understanding.

Above all if you are to find wisdom you will need a passion for truth that will not let you alone, that will not be satisfied with half-truths, that will take all truth wherever it is found as a revelation of God. Truth and experience are the warp and woof of the fabric from which are made the garments of wisdom.

What is it that college can do for a man or woman? It is true that we forget much that we learn. But the purpose of college is more than merely to fill the minds with facts and dates about history, science and literature. College teaches you how to think, and think straight; it teaches you how to study and master a subject or a problem; it teaches you where to find facts that you do not care to burden your memories with; it broadens your outlook, your interests, your sympathies and your understandings. "Wisdom is the principal thing," because wisdom unlocks for you the doors of opportunities and worthwhile service.

II. But some of you are going to work. For you, too, wisdom must be the principal thing. You will need wisdom to find your work in life and to fill your place. Your will need it not less, but even more than your classmates who go to college. Perhaps you think that you are all through school and examinations. Don't you believe it for a single moment. You are simply passing from one school to another, for life is a school, full of tests, daily, weekly, monthly, yearly, and sterner tests than those you had in high school. You are about to enter the College of Hard Work and Experience, and the University of Hard Knocks, and its degrees are just as honorable and as hard to get as those of Harvard, Technology, or Dartmouth.

The mistake many young people make is that of drifting into their work, with the result that we have too many square pegs in round holes in the business and industrial life of today. Many young people are like a dog I heard about. He was a friendly companion, and nature intended him for a bird dog. He had a good nose and could always tell you if there was any game about. But he had one serious fault, he was a dog of many trails. He wished to hunt birds, but he also wished to hunt every other kind of game in the woods. His master bought him to hunt partridges, and that dog could find them if any dog could. He would nose under the apple trees where the partridges had come to pick for seeds, then off he would go into the bushes. But soon this funny thing would happen. If a bunny jumped across his path, bow-wow! away he would go after the bunny! And if bunny ran under a squirrel tree, he would leave the rabbit to chase the squirrel. Then perhaps he would scent a fox, and again, bow-wow! and off he was after Reynard. Once his master caught him "barking in" a chipmunk. That was too much, and his master sold his dog of many trails. Now this story is serious, for what is the fault with so many young people as they leave school, they start off for one thing and then leave it for something else, and so on to the end of life. They drift from one job to another, staying a short time in each place, get tired, then look up another. Finally he thinks this city is too small, so off he goes to another, and in six months is back again. Then he goes away again, but he never sticks. Like the dog he has too many trails.

As you leave school to go to work, the most important thing for you is not your immediate weekly wage or yearly salary, but the choice of your work. Nothing calls for more wisdom, for more understanding of yourselves and your abilities, than this choice of a lifework.

A merchant looked up from his desk at the young man who stood before him, hat in hand. "Want a job, eh?" "No sir," was the unexpected reply; "I am not looking for a job. I came in for work. If you've nothing to offer me but a job I guess I'll look further." From that minute his name was on the payroll, for business men are always on the lookout for young people who appreciate the difference between work and a job.

Even if your aim in life is simply to make money you must have wisdom in order to get it, and still greater wisdom to know what to do with it when you have gotten it. If your purpose is success in business, in politics, or in any other field, you must have wisdom. Some of you will be homemakers and housewives, and it will take infinite wisdom to measure up to all the possibilities of homelife. Whatever may be your task in life you will find much to learn every day, much that will make you both humble and wise.

If you would be truly wise you will in soon as possible find the work in life for which you are fitted, and then seek to fit yourself more efficiently for your work. Whatever may be your line of work, master it thoroughly. There's always room at the top. Today there are all kinds of special courses designed for the purpose of helping you to succeed in your chosen work. There are innumerable books, written by practical men, which will stimulate your ideas and make you more valuable to your employers. There are trade and business magazines that are well worth the reading. But there is grave danger of becoming narrow and one-sided, of reading only those things that can be translated into dollars and cents. You too need to have the second mile of voluntary, painstaking, reading. Do not let your reading stop with the daily paper, the short story magazine, or the cheap novel, but discipline your minds by some real reading in worthwhile books and magazines in order that you may acquire a groundwork of knowledge and understanding. Moreover train your minds to think on the problems that confront your community, your state, your nation and the world. Too many of us after we graduate from high school, yes and even from college, let our minds run to seed by feeding them on chaff and profligated baby food thinking, instead of thinking some things through for ourselves.

We need men and women in the business, political, and labor world today who are just as wise in their way as the men who teach philosophy and science in our universities. We need wise leaders both among the employers and among the employees. Even for those of you who are going immediately into business and industry, "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom; yea, with all thy getting," the getting of money of business, of commercial power, do not fail to "get understanding."

III. But whether you go to college or whether you go to work you all need that higher wisdom which is meant in our text.

Wisdom in the Old Testament means more than intellectual understanding, more than book knowledge, more than common sense, more even than practical wisdom. Our text is speaking primarily of spiritual understanding of Divine wisdom. It is that wisdom of which the Psalmist said, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. A good understanding have all they that do his commandments." There are those today who have been educated in our great universities, but who are not wise in this deeper sense. There are professors who know their own subjects from A to Z, but who do not know even the A B C of life. They may have a whole string of degrees after their names, and yet they may be void of understanding.

Wisdom in our text includes a personal knowledge of God and his ways, a knowledge of His will, and an understanding of life and its mighty purposes and possibilities.

Unless, then, you young people have the fear of God in your hearts you have not got even the beginnings of wisdom. I know that it is the fashion today for high school students to doubt many things that the Bible teaches concerning religion, and some times to speak somewhat flippantly about sacred things. The smattering of science, of history and of philosophy that you receive in high school is sometimes just enough to make you take a critical attitude toward the faith of your fathers. But the time will come when you will settle sadly in your consciences, when you will regret your bold statements of unbelief, when you would give anything to recall those flippant remarks, and when real life with its experiences will make you feel your great need of God. Then your consciousness of God will be so real, that you will feel like saying with that great scientist who after years of skepticism came back to God, "Now it seems to me that God is everything."

Some of you have the beginning of this wisdom in your hearts, for you have learned of God in home and church, and better still you have known Him through personal experience. You have reverenced and loved the scriptures which have made you wise unto salvation through faith. Those of you who go to college will need to guard and nourish this Divine wisdom. You have nothing to fear in college if you give God a fair chance in your lives, for God and your religion cannot be hurt by truth, whether it comes through science or revelation. There is no need of losing this wisdom unless you try to hide it away where no one can see it, if you really have made it your own in actual experience. I will remember President Roberts of Colby saying to the class in philosophy at the beginning of the course, that it was all foolishness allowing philosophy undermine our faith. That we must not expect to know and settle everything. But that it was for us to know some things by personal experience, and then to get busy in living them. You also who are about to take your place in a world of work need to zealously guard your faith, for you will find much skepticism and unbelief in this busy world, and much that will tempt you to doubt the supremacy of the spiritual over the material, and much that will tempt you to lose faith in your fellowmen, and much that will make you impatient with the slow progress of the Kingdom of God in the world of business and politics. But you will also find much to increase your faith, to deepen your understanding, and to bring you close to the heart and mind of God, if you but look deep enough.

Those who have not this wisdom which comes through the fear of God, and I know that some of you have not got it, at least not in any personal way, need it above all things else at this commencement season. You need it to give you a proper perspective and an adequate outlook upon life, to give you balance and poise in the midst of the eddies and currents of life into which you are to be plunged, and to help you to relate all other truths to the central truth of God. I have seen so many fail in college and in life because they left God out of their lives. Do not make that terrible mistake at this crisis hour of your lives. It is just as reasonable to believe that there is a God behind this universe of law and order, whose mind and will is the cause behind it all, as it is for the scientist to trust his own faculties and to accept the fundamental premise of science that this universe is a coherent whole bound together by uniform laws. It is just as reasonable to believe that this force at the heart of things, this being we call God, is a God who loves, as it is to believe in mother's love and in our own power to love, for surely He who made us and gave us the power to love must be love at its highest. "We love, because he first loved us." When you go thus far God's self-revelation in the Bible, and the story of his age long plan of redemption is seen to be the most reasonable thing in the world.

Where are we to find this higher wisdom of which our text speaks? We shall find it in the Bible, in both the Old and the New Testaments in passages too numerous to mention. We shall find it everywhere in life, for history, literature, science and nature are also revelations of God and his wisdom. Truth everywhere is to be welcomed and tested. He who ruled over the kingdom of truth said, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Young men and women, you may not believe just as your fathers and mothers did; your training and the times in which you live may give you different points of view; but you can believe in God just as deeply and sincerely, your faith can be just as real and vital, and your lives can reveal your life with God even as theirs did. After all there is progress in religion as in all things; our parents did not believe just as their fathers and mothers did; but we all go back to God's word as the touchstone of our faith. The wonderful things about Christianity and Christ is their infinite power of adaptation to all sorts and conditions of people, in all times and ages.

Tonight I stand before you as a minister of Jesus Christ who is recognized today by Jew and Gentiles as the greatest prophet of God the world has ever heard. The Jewish people today are proud to claim him as their own, even though they do not give to him the same place as the Christians. But tonight I would not be loyal to Him, whom I call Lord and Master did I not declare that we find this divine wisdom at its highest and best in Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whose voice we hear across the centuries, "I am the truth." What did He mean? He meant that in Him, not only in His teachings, but better still in His life, we find revealed the truth of God. In Him we see the human life of God, and not until God was revealed in human life could we human beings really know that truth concerning which Jesus said He came to bear witness.

In this search for wisdom do not be afraid to use your God given powers of thought and reason. I challenge you to dare to think on the great themes of life and religion. What you think out for yourselves will mean far more than what you receive at second hand. Use your Bibles, "studying to show yourselves approved unto God, workmen that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth." When the problem seems great and your own reasons small, heed the words of James, "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him."

The wisest man that ever lived when God said to him in a dream, "Ask what I shall give thee," replied, "Give thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and evil." Such a prayer is worthy of you, the members of the graduating class, as you finish this stage of your journey of life and pass into unexplored realms.

I congratulate you on what lies before you in your quest for light, for truth and for wisdom. Keep ever before you the words of our text, "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom; yea, with all thy getting, get understanding," realizing all the while that the highest wisdom is that which God alone can give you.

Make wisdom in its highest and best sense your guiding star, the gleam of your lives.

Not of the starlight!
O young Mariner,
Down to the haven,
Call your companions,
Launch your vessel
And crowd your canvas,
And, ere it vanishes
Over the margin,
After it, follow it,
Follow the Gleam.

Medical and Surgical Progress.

Numerous Boston pulpits were occupied Sunday morning by prominent physicians attending the convention of the American Medical Association in that city, these speakers setting before the congregations important facts pertaining to medicine and surgery.

One of the speakers was Dr. Frederick R. Green of Chicago, secretary of the Council of Health and Medical Instruction, American Medical Association, who said that today a knowledge of disease and its prevention is a part of our common knowledge, and that intelligent laymen know more about this subject than did the ablest physicians a century ago. He said that diseases which for centuries were known as plagues and pestilences are now recognized as preventable. He showed how the country's death rate has been decreased since 1880; but said there are still too many deaths from preventable diseases. Today the causes of nearly all contagious diseases are known, and while this advance in medicine has been going on there has been similar progress in surgery. It is quite likely that he astonished some of his hearers when he said: "Scientifically there is no reason why various organs and limbs should not be grafted on the body to take the place of similar structures which have been destroyed or damaged. It is only a question of the development of technique. It may be possible some day for a patient who has lost a hand or foot, an arm or a leg, to match the missing member in the 'local cold storage anatomical warehouse' and have it grafted in position."

To many that will seem like giving a pretty free rein to the imagination, but if we are to judge the future by the past it would be risky to say what can not and will not be done a hundred years from now, and even in much less time. The advance in medicine and surgery, particularly the latter, has been remarkable in this generation. Successful operations are performed every day that would have been deemed impossible not many years ago. It may, and probably will, be a long time before unfortunates minus legs and arms can obtain new supplies by drawing on the "local cold storage anatomical warehouse," but it is certain that modern surgery is saving many limbs which once would have gone to the discard.

One great blessing of the present day is the intelligent effort that is being put forth for the prevention of disease. Sanitation and the teaching of people how to care for their health have made living conditions very different from what they once were. Fads and foibles with reference to health matters are to be discouraged, but an understanding of the ordinary rules of health should be possessed by all, and is possessed by a very much larger proportion of the people than was the case in former years.

As a result the public health is constantly improving. Physicians and surgeons the world over are studying cause and effect as never before, and with such facilities as they now possess they are accomplishing what once would have been deemed nothing short of miraculous.

For all this the public has reason to be thankful. It means progress in a field that is of direct concern to every man, woman and child. In the light of what has already been accomplished the people are warranted in the anticipation of still greater achievements in the years to come.

If the invitations are accepted, as of course they will be if practicable, the New Hampshire Veterans' Association will have at their annual campfire at The Weirs in August distinguished company in General Nelson A. Miles, General John J. Pershing, Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards and Governor Brown and members of his council.

Owing to a decided falling off of traffic, both passenger and freight, the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad has suspended more than 700 men for thirty days. This is a forcible reminder that the railroads are having their troubles, not only in Maine, but all over the country.

The season of graduations is at hand and many graduating classes were "baccalaureated" last Sunday.

A large number of prominent physicians of Boston and vicinity insist that beer and wine have medicinal value and have sent a protest to Senator Walsh against further federal restriction of prescriptions of alcoholic beverages for medicinal purposes. It seems that this question was not fully settled by the adoption of the 18th amendment.

Fuel Administrator Hultman of Boston looks for no reduction in the price of anthracite coal this season and is urging people to put in at least a part of their winter's supply as a safeguard against a possible pinch in the fall or early winter. The present price seems outrageous, but apparently the people must meet it.

The negro quarter of Tulsa, Ok., wiped out by fire attending a race war, is to be rebuilt by the business men of the city, and, as in most cases after a big fire, the homes will be better than those which went up in flames. But, unfortunately, the business men cannot bring the dead to life.

Some improvement in the textile industry is reported in Massachusetts. May it continue and spread to all textile centers.

P. H. S. CLASS OF '06 REUNION AND DANCE

The Portsmouth High School class of 1906 recently observed its fifteenth anniversary with a banquet at the Rockingham, followed by a dance, and the occasion was a happy reunion for the members in attendance.

The class held a reunion five years ago, and at that time it was decided to have another in five years. At the tenth reunion there were 20 members present of the 41 at graduation, and at this reunion there were 12 young women. Widely scattered has the class become, one or two members being abroad, and a number in the western part of the country. Not a young man who was a graduate of the class is located in this city, and a number of letters of regret were read from class members.

The banquet was served in the Colonial dining room of the Rockingham at 6 o'clock, the table being prettily decorated with carnations, while at each plate was a bunch of yellow roses and asparagus fern, tied with green and gold ribbons, the class colors, and these were worn by the class members throughout the evening. The banquet was excellent, and the serving marked by sociability and pleasant reminiscences of days at the Portsmouth High School.

At 8 o'clock dancing was enjoyed in the ball room of the hotel, and to this part of the evening's festivities 150 invitations had been sent out. The hall was beautified with banquets of carnations and ferns, and an orchestra furnished music, and the evening proved a success, and filled with enjoyment.

Those present at this reunion and banquet were: Mrs. Florence Smith Hanscom, vice-president of the class; Mrs. Margaret Curran Long, its secretary; Pearl B. Wood, Marguerite G. Jeanness, Mrs. Henrietta Pever Norton, Marion Loud, Mrs. Addie Stevens, Rennick, Mrs. Edith Badger Torrey, Mrs. Alice Hall, Mrs. Ethel Dunbar Fernald, Mrs. Charles Moulton Sewall, Greenland, and Evelyn Drake North Hampton; Maurice O. Richards of New Haven, Conn., was among those present at the dance which followed the banquet and the only male member of the class at the gathering.

Since the last reunion two members of the class have died, Miss Katharine Cullen and Horace Ham. Two others passed away some years ago, these being Lewis Wasson and Harry Rounsdell.

At the reunion of five years ago it was voted to have the class become a permanent association, and Florence Hanscom Smith, Margaret Long Curran and Pearl B. Wood were chosen as a committee for future meetings and they were in charge of the arrangements of this, the fifteenth anniversary.

The class of 1906 was the first class to graduate from the new High School building. Its president was Charles Henry Tucker, now of Boston. At the commencement exercises the address was given by Professor Charles Harvey Adams, of Dartmouth College whose subject was "The Value of a Man."

WON HIGH HONORS.

Miss Edna Boyd, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert J. Boyd of 332 Lincoln avenue, was the only local young woman to graduate from Simmons College in the class of 1921. While at college Miss Boyd won high honors in the fields of music and athletics and was one of the most popular students of her class.

Miss Boyd has held the offices of manager of the Mandolin Club, basketball manager of the class of '21, chairman of the May Day Party, president of the New Hampshire State Club and president of the Simmons College Athletic Association. Miss Boyd is a graduate of the Portsmouth High School; class of 1917. She has arrived home to pass the summer and in the fall will take a secretarial position in Boston which she has recently accepted.

Simmons College sent out one of the largest classes in its history this year, 321 Bachelor degrees and 18 Masters being awarded. Portsmouth may well be proud that it was so well represented in the class and that Miss Boyd was so deserving of the honors.

AT LAST!

N. H. LEGISLATIVE ASSOCIATION IN SESSION HERE

Washington, June 16, 1921

Honorable Oliver L. Frisbee,
Portsmouth, N. H.

My dear Mr. Frisbee:

Many thanks for your letter, and kind invitation. Indeed I would like to be with you at the reunion and I almost tell you how complimented I am that you should have asked me. However, it isn't on the cards. My job now must be to do this work as well as it lies in me and I cannot expect to be successful in this unless I stay right by the job.

I know just what an interesting reunion yours must be. As an ex-legislator of the State of New York, I thoroughly appreciate the problems and work that comes before the state legislatures. The state legislatures are, in my opinion, the most representative bodies we have in the country. Will you give your associates my warm regards and wish them all kinds of good luck.

With best wishes,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

United States Senate,
June 20, 1921

Honorable Oliver L. Frisbee,
Portsmouth, N. H.

My dear Senator:

I still have in mind the reunion of the New Hampshire Legislative Association to be held in Portsmouth on June 23. My plans are still entirely unsettled and I am unable to tell whether I can get away from Washington. It all depends upon what happens in the next few days. The chances, however, regret to say, are very much against my being able to get to Portsmouth at such an early date. I am sure you will have a most pleasant and interesting celebration and I certainly would enjoy meeting so many former members of the legislature. If I miss it this year shall try to connect another year for don't believe that Congress will be obliged to remain in session during the summer months a year hence.

With kindest personal regards, I am
Sincerely yours,
HENRY W. KEYES

EMERY—SOMERVILLE.

A pretty June wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Somerville, on Elwyn avenue, Wednesday afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Hazel Somerville, was united in marriage to Harry Emery of Kittery Point.

The home was decorated with flowers and verdure for the nuptial event, and the wedding party stood in the bay window which was banked with greenery, in which daisies and buttercups were intermingled.

The bride wore a dainty gown of white organdie, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Phyllis Somerville who wore white voile with trimmings of val lace. Her flowers were pink carnations.

The marriage service was impressively performed by Rev. Dr. Lucian C. Fellamsbee, pastor of the Court Street Christian Church, and included an exchange of rings. There were about 35 relatives and friends present at the wedding and after the service the couple held an informal reception, and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery left on an afternoon train for their wedding trip, and upon their return will reside on Lincoln avenue. The bride on her trip wore a navy blue serge tailored gown and hat of dark blue straw with gray trimmings.

Mrs. Emery was a graduate of the Portsmouth High School, class of 1914, and has held a position in the Granite State Insurance Company. The groom is employed as a machinist at the local navy yard.

The couple has many friends and received many wedding gifts, among these a silver service from the employees of the office of the Granite State Insurance Company.

RUSSIA WORKING WITH NEAR EAST

(By Associated Press)

Riga, June 22—Recent arrivals from Moscow declare that the world little realizes how closely Soviet Russia is pushing its friendship with the Near East.

In Moscow now the Turkish legation occupies one of the most sumptuous of the old palaces and the personnel, gathered in faultless European clothes present a strange contrast to the poorly garbed Muscovites. The Afghans and other Near Eastern delegations also occupy luxurious quarters, give elaborate banquets and otherwise carry on with all the pomp of the old Eastern courts.

Besides this, Lenine has so accommodated himself to the psychology of the East, that he now exchanges presents with the rulers of Turkey, Persia, etc., as did the rulers of ancient days.

A Moscow dispatch today reads like a paragraph from what might have been an ancient tablet of hieroglyphics, describing the visit of a Babylonian envoy to King Cyrus of Persia. It says:

"The representative of the Soviet government has made his first official visit to the Shah of Persia, presenting to the Shah on a golden salver an album with photographs of soviet leaders of the whole of Russia as a personal present to the shah from Lenine."

A man who recently arrived from Moscow said: "Few persons realize what a close connection now exists between Russia and its old enemy Turkey, and for that matter all of the East. Lenine is accomplishing here what the old Russian government could not do by playing up to Eastern psychology."

COUNTRY CLUB SOCIAL PROVES BIG SUCCESS

One of the most enjoyable and largest attended socials for a long time was held at the Country club on Wednesday afternoon and evening. The attendance was very large and it included many of the non-resident members. The program was continuous during the afternoon and well into the night.

It was the opening of the remodeled club house, which includes a very much larger dancing floor and a new kitchen and ladies' locker. The house has also been newly refurnished and is much more attractive for parties.

During the afternoon there was a nine hole medal play handicap and a mixed two ball foresome. There was trap shooting at the club traps and a putting contest followed by dancing during the evening. Supper was served at six o'clock.

The nine hole handicap was won by Dr. S. M. Jones.

The scores were:

Dr. S. M. Jones	41	10	31
B. M. Randall	41	7	34
S. B. Simpson	41	7	34
T. F. Flanagan	39	4	35
J. E. Lineberry	39	1	38
J. W. Pierce	45	7	39
Dr. H. M. Tolfree	47	9	38
J. E. Pickering	48	9	39
J. H. Bartlett	54	15	39
R. L. Sugden	49	9	40
L. A. Newick	47	7	40
J. J. Hassett	50	10	40
H. W. Laird	55	13	42
F. J. McCann	57	15	42

The mixed two ball foresome was won by Miss. McCarthy and Shirley B. Simpson with a gross of 62, a handicap 7 and net of 55. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Peyser were second with 55-8-47.

At the traps L. M. Crossley was high gun with 83 out of 100. H. E. Pilton was second with 74 and F. A. Belden third with 68.

The putting contest was won by Mrs. E. C. Matthews for the ladies and Dr. Lyons for the men.

During the afternoon there was music by an orchestra and cards at the club house.

Supper was served at six o'clock and Haywood Burton catered and there were some over one hundred present.

In the evening Marden's orchestra furnished music for the dancing and this was enjoyed until midnight.

The club was very prettily decorated, flowers and greenery being used in profusion. The social was in charge of the house committee, H. E. Philbrook, Mrs. Rhoda Beacham, Mrs. Willard Howe and Miss Georgine Moses, assisted by the officers of the club in the various events.

LITTLE LIGHT BEARERS ANNUAL RECEPTION

The Little Light Bearers of the Methodist Church held their annual reception on Tuesday afternoon in the church vestry from three to five o'clock, this social event being in charge of Mrs. Charles E. Jenness, the superintendent of this children's missionary society. Little folks up to the age of eight years may belong to this society and a large number were present accompanied by their mothers.

The vestry was beautified with bouquets of flowers and games suitable for children were played. Miss Pauline Tasker rendered a piano solo and Mrs. Clarence George gave a vocal selection, both being enjoyed.

The mite-boxes for the year were opened and a large sum collected for the missionary cause. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant had the largest sum in their mite boxes. The youngest child present was aged three months, while others were of varying ages up to eight years. P. A. C. WINS FROM LEGION

GAMES THIS WEEK
Tonight—Navy Yard vs. Fort.

SUNSET LEAGUE STANDING

Navy Yard	3	1	.750
Legion	3	2	.600
P. A. C.	4	1	.800
Hovey Post	1	3	.250
Fort	0	4	.000

The P. A. C. took the lead in the Sunset League on Wednesday when they defeated the Legion in a well played game and broke the triple tie for first place.

It was one of the best games of the season and an even break up until the fourth when the P. A. C. scored two runs, tucking the lead. The Legion had the bases full in the fifth, but they failed to come through with the necessary hit. The P. A. C. gave Weare perfect support and he made the only error in the game. Buckley and James Cullinan of the High school played with the Legion and Buckley made two hits and accepted four chances and Cullinan made a hit and two assists.

The Navy Yard has a chance this evening to come to a tie with the P. A. C. by winning their game from the Fort.

The Legion was up and Morin walked, James Cullinan filed to Thomas, Woods was thrown out by Brackett and Wilkinson struck out.

The P. A. C. scored one run in their half. Pilgrim singled over short, Butler sacrificed him to second and a wild pitch put him on third. Brackett was passed and stole second. Beattie hit to James Cullinan and Pilgrim scored, Beattie being retired at first; Thomas struck out.

The Legion tied the score in the second inning. Mercer filed to Fernald, Dow singled over third and stole second, John Cullinan fanned. Buckley singled to right and Dow scored. Monk singled over third, Buckley going to third, but Weare fanned Moran.

The Legion got a man on in the third after James Cullinan had filed to left. Woods walked but Wilkinson and Mercer fanned.

The champs had five men on bases during the inning but failed to score. Weare walked. Pilgrim singled to left, Butler hit to Monk and Weare was run down off third. Brackett singled to short and Pilgrim was held at third, Beattie hit to James Cullinan who cut off Pilgrim at the plate. Thomas struck out.

The P. A. C. won the game in this frame. Leary leading off with a two base hit to left. Fernald singled to right and they pulled a double steal, Leary scoring. Sylvester struck out and Weare tried to behead Monk, the ball breaking off his glove to short, Fernald scoring on the play. Pilgrim was out to Woods and Butler was thrown out by Buckley.

In the fifth the Legion filled the bases after Moran had been retired, Beattie to Leary, James Cullinan then walked to center and stole second. Woods was safe on Weare's bad throw. Wilkinson struck out. Mercer was passed and with the bases filled Weare forced Dow to roll a weak one to him.

SPORT NOTES

William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey, born in Manassa, Col., June 24, 1895, is a novice in ring affairs when compared with the ristic experience of George Carpentier his challenger. Carpentier's earliest ring engagements date back to 1907, when the Frenchman was but a slip of a boy. Dempsey's first official battles were fought in 1915.

A contest with one Kid Hancock, whom Dempsey knocked out in 10 single rounds, is the first official engagement credited to the conqueror of Jess Willard. Dempsey, however, tells with evident delight, of an earlier battle.

Dempsey himself was the promoter, ticket taker and principal in that boxing program which grew out of an argument with another youth at Montrose, Col. They were about to settle the difficulty in the usual American style with fists when Dempsey, showing a certain business acumen that has been noticeable in both him and his manager in later days, suggested that they hold the bout indoors and charge admission. A few days later they pitched a ring in the town dance hall. Dempsey sold and collected tickets at the door until it was time to fight. They split the $50 gate and declared it was easy money.

That bout started Jack Dempsey in the profession which was to make him subsequently the highest paid athlete any sport has ever seen.

He fought 27 battles during 1915 and 1916, winning 18 by knockouts and five on decisions. He fought three draws and was defeated once, by Jack Downey.

How Georges Carpentier taken from a Paris brewery where he worked as an office boy, won his first battle by knocking out Francois Descamps, his instructor, when Descamps attempted to chastise the youth, is one of the choice legends of boxing. Descamps' keen perception on that day, as well as his shrewdness and perseverance has been a most important factor in bringing the French lover to the most important position he now occupies.

Three four round contests constituted Carpentier's first year of ring activity in 1907. Two of these he won, defeating on points Bourgeois and Wilnick, French boxers, whose only claim to fame is that they once met Georges Carpentier. There was more opposition in the third battle and at the end of four rounds, Carpentier was the loser to one Mazoir, another Frenchman who has sunk into obscurity. Carpentier's total ring earnings for that year are said to have been $181.

The following year was more successful. Twice in his fifteenth year the young Frenchman won by knockouts.

JOY BROUGHT INTO HOME

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Restoring Mrs. Benz to Health

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We have had six children die almost at birth. Four one hour to nineteen days in all they have lived. As I was going to have another, I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says, 'That is some healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show this letter."—Mrs. C. W. Benz, 1313rd Ave., Altoona, Pa.

No woman can realize the joy and happiness this healthy babe brought into the home of Mrs. Benz, unless they have had a like experience.

Every woman who suffers from any ailments peculiar to her sex, as indicated by backaches, headaches, bearing-down pains, irregularities, nervousness and "the blues" should not rest until they have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE DECIDED HERE NEXT WEEK

The New Hampshire trap shooting championship will be decided at the Portsmouth Country club traps on Friday and Saturday of next week, July 1-2, when the annual state tournament will be held. It is expected that the field will be the largest for some years, even better than that of last year, which brought out some of the finest trap shots in the country. The shoot precedes the annual Maplewood event, one of the classics of the country in trap shooting, and many of the big shots of the country will take in the state shoot here on their way through to the Maplewood shoot.

The program for the first day will be 100 targets at 16 yards, the first half of the championship, and twenty-five pairs of doubles. On the second day there will be 200 targets, the first hundred the finish of the championship, and the Maplewood hundred, and 100 distance handicap. There will be three or four classes in the 16 yard events, but the doubles are scratch and the 100 distance handicap classes itself.

Two traps are installed and it may be necessary to install a third as there are three trap houses, but this will depend upon the size of the field. Lunch will be served at the club house on both days.

The championship was won last year by Elmer E. Reed of Manchester and he will defend his title this year. Others who are in the running are L. M. Crosby of Exeter, C. A. Allen of this city and W. B. Farmer of Hampton Falls.

PLOWMAN FINDS BONES OF MASTODON

Newburg, N. Y., June 22—The skeleton of a mastodon, with tusks 75 inches long has been discovered here by Anthony Fichera, a truck gardner, while plowing on his farm. The bones were in a good state of preservation.

One of the ribs measured 50 inches along the curve and 30 inches from tip to tip in a straight line. The lower leg bone was 32 inches long and the thigh 31 inches.

A peculiarity was the size of the hip joint—a ball of bone 14 inches in diameter. Each jawbone held three teeth, the enamel still being in good condition. Each tooth was 14 inches long and the combined width of the three measured 16 inches.

BEQUEATHS SISTER ONE SILVER DOLLAR

Manchester, N. H., June 22—The will of James R. Straw, one of Manchester's wealthiest residents, who died several weeks ago, was offered for probate today.

To his native town of Henniker the sum of $20,000 was left, to be known as the James R. and Hannah E. Straw Fund, the income of which is to be devoted to the improvement and the care of the new cemetery in that town.

His sister, Miss Mary E. Straw, is given a silver dollar, which is described as the first his father ever earned.

To his late wife's sister, Miss Addie O. Stevens, who cared for him during the last year of his life, is given the use of the Straw home in this city as long as she remains unmarried; also the income from his large property holdings. On the death of Miss Stevens the property will go to the town of Henniker.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Mrs. Agnes H. Parker of Boston, national patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief Corps, was the speaker of the evening at the recent patriotic service at the Methodist Church in recognition of Flag Day, and she gave an inspirational talk on "Practical Patriotism" or our duty during peace time.

Storer Relief Corps No. 5 attended in a body and occupied front seats in the auditorium. There were also a number of Civil War and World War veterans in the audience. The following was the program:

Prelude.
Processional No. 108.
23rd Psalm (Nelson).
Star Spangled Banner.
Prayer.
Anthem by the choir.
Notices.
Offering.
Vocal solo, "The Recessional" ..... De Koven
Mrs. George Chaffee
Introduction of Speaker.
Miss Edith M. Paul
Address, Mrs. Parker.
Remarks by Mayor F. W. Hartford.
Flag Salute.
Star Spangled Banner.
Recessional.
Benediction.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Tasker, who left Sunday afternoon for South Hadley, Mass., to attend the Commencement exercises at Mt. Holyoke College, James H. Smith had charge of the service. Seated on the stage besides the speaker were also Mayor F. W. Hartford, Miss Edith M. Paul, past department president of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Mrs. Annie Goodrich, president of Storer Relief Corps.

Mrs. Parker began her talk by asking the question "What is patriotism?" and spoke in part as follows:

"Patriotism! We feel it—we preach it, but do we always practice it? Are we true to the ideals for which our flag stands? Sometimes I think we look through red, white and blue glasses and are perfectly content to see the red, white and blue and let it go at that. We hear about the sacrifices made in the Civil war and the World war and we go home and do nothing. Then we wonder how the country gets on. Do we not all know that it takes oil and oil and more oil to make an automobile go, and so with our great country. It takes oil and more oil to keep its machinery going and its the patriotic societies today that are helping so much to make things smooth. We live from day to day without much thought of tomorrow, but the steam which blows the whistle of the factory does not make the machinery, although the blow that calls the men to work is doing some good. The Woman's Relief Corps has not blown trumpets yet we know that in the forty years of its existence it has tried to give patriotic service.

"We were glad to see our boys volunteer for service in the recent war, and it was a beautiful thought to think of them as lightening the burden of others, but aside from that was it a selfish motive for our boys to fight for that flag? Was it selfish to fight in defense of one's country?

"We have heard much about Americanism during the last few years. It has been a popular subject with speakers. We preach 100 per cent Americanism, but what per cent do we practice? Preaching must be followed by practice or it amounts to nothing but steam. To make good Americans start with the American home. Make Americans of some of the people who have come to our shores. When those in this country are Americanized I don't believe there will be the trouble. There is a problem of children of foreign parentage. How few of us have an interest in them. One Italian said to me, 'I wish some one had spoken to me as kindly 25 years ago as you did to my brother and family when they landed in this country recently. Then he told me of his being told of the wonderful land of promise—America—and that when he saw the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor he prayed that God might make him worthy to receive all the blessings he and his wife and little ones would have in America. But as he landed and one of the officials shouted for him to go back and wait and in a tone as if he were driving cattle, and when not a kind word was spoken to him, the prayer in the Italian's heart died and the desire to be worthy died and a feeling of revenge came in its place.

"We say it's a great mistake to have these people come here, but what are we doing for them? We say the stock coming down from the Pilgrim fathers is dying out and the children of the foreigners must take their place. I talke recently in a school where the pupils were made up of twenty-five nationalities and I explained about the flag and told the children how they must cherish it and that when they were older they would be told how little boys from the ages of ten to sixteen and eighteen fought and died in its defense. It is a new kind of patriotism we should teach and practice, not the kind remembered on Decoration Day only and forgotten again on May thirtieth the next year.

"It's the every day patriotism—an unselfish patriotism that we need and we must show proper respect for the men who died for the flag and also for those who come to America and make up the coming generation. Set the right kind of example, for those who come here that they will see something besides commercialism and the chasing of the dollar.

"The American Legion is taking up the patriotic work of the fist thinning ranks of the Civil war veterans, who have been so faithful for so many years. The boys who used to go off to play ball on Memorial Day have learned higher things, and now believe it is a day whose hallowed associations should be regarded. Only in proportion s our lives are lived on earth can we claim the reward of the great hereafter."

Mrs. Parker expressed appreciation of the interest shown by Mayor Hartford in the patriotic service of Sunday evening, and he was called upon for remarks. The vocal solo by Geo. E. Chaffee added much to the musical program, which was creditably rendered by the vested choir.

are unequalled for either interior or exterior use. They diffuse the sun's rays perfectly but because of their open construction, admit light. They are absolutely sanitary, for they can be dusted or washed. They are hung so they can be taken down or put up in a moment. They are artistic when viewed from outside or inside the porch. It is the most economical shade to buy, considering its long life of service. Many sizes and colorings to select from. Call and look at our stock—large and varied.
